

FILM AND MEDIA STUDIES (ENFS)

Film and media have become major cultural forms in the 21st century and their study is now an important part of a modern humanities education. The Film/Media Studies major teaches students to critically engage, understand, and produce moving images. Courses challenge students to think historically, theoretically, and analytically about a wide range of audiovisual media including cinema, radio, television, and new media. The Film/Media Studies major also encourages students to apply their knowledge by producing creative work in media production courses. Film/Media Studies is partnered with Lewisburg's Campus Theatre for classroom screenings and also uses the Marts Film/Media Production Studio for production classes.

Courses in the Film/Media Studies Major provide disciplinary depth through: 1. Skills in writing. Students majoring in Film/Media Studies perform significant written analysis of film and media texts. 2. Skills in formal presentation. Several courses in Film/Media Studies require dynamic and persuasive oral presentations. These courses cultivate presentation skills through practicing presentational strategies and integrating multimedia content to support student ideas and arguments. 3. Information literacy. Film/Media majors learn how to research and evaluate primary and secondary sources through written and visual work plus in-class discussion.

Students taking the major are encouraged to start with ENFS 130 Introduction to Film/Media Studies. Beyond ENFS 130, the major requires a minimum of nine additional courses as described below.

An approved Culminating Experience.<sup>1</sup>

Seniors majoring in Film/Media Studies must successfully complete ONE of the following options for fulfilling the Culminating Experience requirement:

- write and successfully defend an Honors Thesis in film/media studies;
- complete a one-semester ENFS independent study project in either semester of the senior year. This project may be critical or creative;
- attend six events as part of the Tuesday evening Film/Media Series at The Campus Theatre in a given semester and submit a 250-word report to the designated Culminating Experience blog within three days of attending each event. Other related events may be substituted with your adviser's permission;

- create a three to five-minute film according to parameters available from their adviser, on the program website, or from the Program Director before the specified deadline;
- write an original work of film criticism, analysis, theory, or history in the form of a 6-10 page essay on one film that screened at the Campus Theatre to be published on the Bucknell Film Review's webpage. The film selected cannot be a screening for a course in which the student is enrolled. Further guidelines are available from the student's adviser, the Program Director, or on the program website.
