RUSSIAN STUDIES (RUSS)

Studying Russian, the fifth most widely spoken language in the world, becomes especially important at the present time when Russian aggression in Ukraine has the potential to disrupt the world order. By developing students’ language skills and expanding their knowledge of all the cultures in the region that use Russian, the Russian studies program strives to make students active participants in the multicultural, global community. Because Russian is one of the less-frequently taught languages, a major in Russian can become a unique and decisive factor in students’ future careers in law, journalism, international affairs, academia, and public and government services. The faculty of the Russian studies program believes that even with a mastery of Russian grammar, real communication is still impossible unless students become familiar with the culture, society and life experiences of Russian speakers across the region. For that reason, the Russian studies program offers courses in literature, culture, film and Russian and East European society (both in Russian and English).

All Russian language courses beyond RUSS 104 Intermediate Russian II include assignments that are designed to develop students' writing and speaking skills. The "content" Russian language courses at the 200 and 300 levels, and courses on Russian culture and literature taught in English, also help students enhance their critical thinking and information literacy.

Major in Russian Studies

The major in Russian studies consists of eight courses:

Four language courses beyond RUSS 103 4
300-level seminar in Russian 1
Three Russian literature/culture courses taught in English 3

RUSS 204 Russian Conversation is encouraged as a complement to upper-level language courses, but neither RUSS 204 Russian Conversation nor RUSS 209 Russian Complementary Reading count toward the major requirement of five language courses beyond RUSS 103 Intermediate Russian I. A 300-level Russian language seminar completed during the senior year will fulfill the College of Arts & Sciences Core Curriculum Culminating Experience requirement. This requirement also can be fulfilled by an honors thesis in Russian.

The Russian studies program offers four levels of Russian language study, striving to bring students to the intermediate high/advanced low level according to the ACTFL scale. This means that after graduation, students are able to function effectively in Russian. Students majoring in Russian are strongly urged to deepen their knowledge of the language and country by studying in an approved summer or semester program in Russia.

Russian Studies Minor

A minor in Russian Studies requires five credits in the program. At least one of the five credits, taught in either Russian or English, must have a strong literature/culture component.

1. Demonstrate the four language skills (reading, writing, speaking and comprehension) at an intermediate-high/advanced-low level. (1, 2, 6, 7, 9)
2. Demonstrate proficiency in the discussion and analysis of cultural, political, historical and literary issues within the Russian-speaking world. (2, 3, 4, 5)
3. Display an appreciation of foreign languages in general, sensitivity to cultural differences and a deeper understanding of their own culture. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 9)
4. Develop the knowledge and skills for effective functioning in either a post-graduate academic environment or a professional career. (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8)
